Orders Transfer Colonel Cloward

Lieutenant Colonel Glannin A. Cloward of the Air Force ROTC Detachment at Brigham Young University has received orders transferring him to Kinross Air Force Base, Michigan.

While assigned to BYU he assisted in chartering a Kiwanis Club at Orem, served as program chairman and member of the board of directors for two years. He acted as parade chairman for the recent Utah Valley Pioneer Days celebration.

Col. Cloward is now concluding a three-year tour of duty at BYU, and has served as deputy commander, director of training, and assistant professor of Air Science for the university detachment. He will leave for his new assignment next week.

Col. Cloward received his commission in the Field Artillery through the ROTC program at University of Utah in 1939 and entered service the same year. He received his pilot wings in 1943.

He served in two theaters of operation during World War II, flying 68 missions as a pilot of a B-25. He also wears the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters and Commendation Ribbon with one oak leaf cluster.

Conversion from Steam to Hot Water Heating Initiated for Expected BYU Campus Expansion

Engineers at Brigham Young University last week fired up boilers to put a new heating system into operation. Tests of the 1.3 million dollar system are right on schedule.

Conversion from steam to the hot temperature water system required a year for completer will be used over again with no corrosion of metallic parts.

Boilers Temporary

Four temporary boilers have served the campus since the start of work a year ago. Tearing up long expanses of campus was required for the installation, with the entire mechanism covered with double thickness insulation to retain its high temperatures.

The system is believed to be the only one of its kind in the intermountain area with the exception of Mountain Home Air Base, Idaho.

Suitable System

Leland M. Perry, BYU Physical Plant director, said the system is suited for distribution of heat over long distances, as is necessary on the expansive BYU campus. High temperature hot water heating will also be more economical, since sudden demands for heat can be handled without over-firing.

When the heat is not used, water returns hot and automatically turns down the fire to maintain a steady temperature.

Because of the great capacity of the water for reserve heat, the plant could be shut down for several hours without inconvenience to occupants of campus buildings, Perry stated.

Loaded Added

Added to the heating load in recent years have been 24 residence halls, Fletcher Engineering Laboratory, McDonald Student Health Center, Cluff Plant Science Laboratory, Clark Student Service Center and Smith Fieldhouse.

New men's residence halls now under construction and the present campus will be handled by the new system, with capacity for future expansion.

WHAT PRICE PEACE?

Two mighty armies met in a German wheat field. They approached each other cautiously, ready to open fire. Tempers on both sides were honed to a wire edge after four years of vicious fighting against a common enemy. One false move, one misguided word, one mistake and these victorious Allied Armies would have entered into a death struggle for world supremacy.

STAR ARMIES

But when white star army met red star army the men who walked in ranks of both armies looked into the eyes of their counterparts. And the soldiers in both armies said of each other, "These men are like us. They want to return to their homes. They want peace. They are sincere!"

One of the strangest sights in military history occurred when long skirmish lines of American and Russian armies broke ranks and ran to each other and embraced. The war was over. Now Peace! The Allies had won.

PLAIN SCARED

After the two armies had drawn back away from each other many of their leaders started thinking.

The red army leaders thought; "We certainly don't want the horror of war, invasion and famine to come upon our people again. We will hold the countries we have captured as a buffer zone until some disarmament settlement can be reached."

The white army leaders said "We do not want to let some aggressor sneak attack us again as they did at Pearl Harbor." So Americans built and maintained military air bases throughout the world.

DOCTRINE DIFFERENCES

It became perfectly apparent to Americans that Russian Communist doctrine was one of world domination by the use of force if necessary.

And it was equally obvious to the Russians that the capitalist Americans were trying to economically starve the rest of the world into submission for capitalist interests and profit.

So the world became divided into two spheres of influence: the free enterprise system and the communist social order . . . two camps, armed to the teeth, racing to see who could have the most invincible weapons to protect themselves from each other.

NO SOLUTION

Though the United Nations has tried for eleven years, since World War II, to settle the disarmament problem, no positive results have been attained.

War between the spheres has been narrowly averted several times in such places as Indo China, Korea, Greece, China, Germany, Egypt and Hungary. Will it be all out war in the next Hungary?

Leaders of both sides believe they are doing the right thing to protect their people and their system of government.

AVOID WAR

What about the common man? What does he think? The common man in both the Russian sphere and the American sphere wants peace. But he has been filled with so much propaganda that he finds it difficult to sift through and find truth.

So what is the truth about disarmament and peace? One truth is immediately apparent: No human being, in his right mind, wants to shoot another human being or be shot at himself. Since this is true, why can't both sides disarm and use their combined energies to solve the mysteries of nature and unlock the secrets of the universe?

WHOSE RESPONSIBILITY

If man is to save himself from himself he must learn to overcome his weaknesses and become mature enough to force his leaders to disarm the world. If real peace is ever to exist in the world both the American and Russian people must become mature enough to throw aside the political and propaganda mumbo jumbo they are now confronted with in favor of lasting peace and friendship.

If the common man really wants peace why can't he take enough responsibility to get it. If the common man shirks this responsibility he is doomed to die the death of his own hand!

ANYWHERE I PONDER

Professor Hugh Nibley, writer of the 1957 Priesthood Manual, will not be leaving for Libya after all. State Department has delayed his passport because of conditions in the Near East, so he expects to be teaching here at least another year.

Among best-dressed girls on campus is Martha Hammond, senior English major from Portland, Ore. Being tastefully and attractively attired for every occasion is difficult with a full load of schooling, but she manages to wear a striking hat or something different often. Martha was a model back home.

Novels of Thomas Wolfe make interesting reading and surpass those of most American writers. Wolfe dwelt mostly on his own life, describing in detail the moments of beauty and sorrow he had known.

Most people find him difficult to understand, but he shouldn't be read like other authors—cover to cover. It is best to skip around and read only what catches the attention, otherwise his books are too lengthy.

To understand Wolfe read the brief credo, last chapter in "You Can't Go Home Again," last book he wrote before his death.

"Something has spoken to me in the night . . . and told me, 'I shall die, I know not where.'"

"To lose the earth you know for greater knowing; to lose the life you have, for greater life; to leave the friends you loved, for greater love; to find a land more kind than home, more large than earth. . . ."

"I've a friend I'd like you girls to meet."

Athletic girl: "What can he do?"

Chorus girl: "How much has he?"

Literary girl: "What does he read?"

Society girl: "Who are his family?"

Religious girl: "What is his church?"

College girl: "Where is he?"

English Professor Gives Lecture On Humanity Value

Karl E. Young, professor of English at Brigham Young University, will lecture on "The Case for the Humanities" Tuesday at 9:45 a.m. in Smith Auditorium.

Professor Young's talk will cover expectations of humanities courses and what is to be gained from them.

"Humanities help to develop critical appraisal, give insight into life, and help to elevate emotional faculties," stated Professor Young. In addition, humanities expand the scope of living and extend the horizon of thinking.

As a Rhodes scholar Professor Young attended Oxford University in England. He graduated with a bachelor's degree in English language and literature in 1930, and with a master's degree in English language and literature in 1934.

He has been a high priest quorum group leader in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He is married to Elma Bennion and they have two children.

Student Works at Fort

Reed M. Jacobs, Manti, junior this fall at Brigham Young University, is one of 50 student-trainees working at the historic old Fort Huachuca, Ariz., during summer vacation. He is working with the Combat Surveillance Department of the U.S. Army Electronic Proving Ground.

(Ed. note: In the interest of giving credit where it is due, the following are excerpts from a letter to the Universe. Space limitations prohibit printing the complete letter, but it may be examined in room 144 Clark Student Service Center. Mr. Cruze is director of education at South Park Academy, Utah State Prison school.)

Dear Editor:

Please permit us to express, through the medium of your highly informative paper, our fondest regards, and most profound thanks to the staff of the Daily Universe, to all student-body personnel, and to those altruistic members of the faculty who are giving of their time and talent that this institution may, indeed, become a true seminar of learning.

Certainly we are moving in the direction of the greatest good. But our progress is slow. Many persons yet need to be convinced that "prisoners are people"—that they can be appealed to the same way that others can.

The great Mormon prophet, Joseph Smith, was fully aware of that fact. For it was he who said, over 100 years ago, that "Rigor and seclusion will never do as much to reform the propensities of men as reason and friendship. Let the penitentiaries be turned into seminaries of learning, where intelligence, like the angels of heaven, would banish such fragments of barbarism."

We are the builders of a culture which is dedicated to the task of reforming and modifying all of the cultures which have preceded (us). Thus it is altogether fitting and proper that this great school, under God, should play the significant role that it does. How thankful we are for the BYU. She is playing her role well.

Scribblin'

What with vacations, working, tubing, canyon parties, golf, dances, assemblies and an excellent chicken fry, it's a wonder that anybody gets any studying done, let alone obtaining decent grades on examinations. Such is the happy swirl of college life in the good ole summertime.

August is a month of significant birthday anniversaries. It's the month of the birth of Davy Crockett, Orville Wright, Claude Debussy, Lee DeForest, World War I, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, Army Ambulance Corps, Great Boston Fire, Air Mail Service, U. S. Naval Academy and chop suey.

During August we have Friendship Day, International Character Day, V-J Day, National Aviation Day and Temperance Sunday. It's an ideal month for you if you're a friendly one, a real character, a pilot, or a teetotaler.

No matter how clever you really are, or think you are, one of the best things to have up your sleeve is a funnybone. No need to specifically enumerate the reasons here.

Overheard was a disgusted instructor muttering, "If ignorance is bliss why aren't there more happy people?"

Do you have a conscience? If you do you'll probably admit that it's that still small voice that tells you you'd better start figuring out an alibi.

Wise or not it's probably quite true that a man hopes his lean years are behind him; a woman hopes that hers are ahead.

Students Show Art With Water Colors

An exhibit of fifty water color paintings by students at Brigham Young University is on public display in the Smith Ballroom. The pictures have been painted by students of Wesley Burnside, guest instructor at BYU Summer School.

According to Conan E. Mathews, art department chairman, the exhibit is noteworthy for its color, achieved by washes of liquid pigment in combination with the standard paste pigments.

Featured is the work of both graduate and undergraduate students including Robert Draper, Jacqueline Rose, Carol Christensen, Karen Anderson, Nadine Warner, Ernel Anderson, Robert Powell, Max Bunnell and Gerald Olson.

A former student at BYU, Mr. Burnside has taught art for many years, including seven years at Idaho State College. At University of California, he has been studying the past two years for the Ph.D. degree in art history.

The exhibit will remain on display until Friday.

New Press Box Will Welcome Returning Cougars to Stadium

Brigham Young University Cougars will have a new press box to greet them as they enter the football stadium for the first home game against Montana, October 4.

Completion of the press box, which is being built by the physical plant department, has been tentatively set for September 1.

It will be a one-story building with redwood siding, which will match the ticket booths. The inside will be insulated and lined with acoustic tile. Wide vision will be a welcome result of the large, sloping glass front windows.

The box will be built in three sections which are separated by the aisles leading into the stadium. The center section will be 50 feet long and will house the sportswriters, Western Union, statisticians and game workers.

One of the end sections will be for three radio broadcasting booths and the other one will be used by athletic scouts.

A few years ago sportswriters voted the old press box which was razed last month, the second worst in the nation.

It is believed the new press box will put more space to better use.

How to Save Time

Do you find time within each day to do everything you might like to do? Time was money to Ben Franklin and a Greek philosopher named Theophrastus said: "Time is the most valuable thing a man can spend."

1. Whenever you are going or whatever you are doing, start in time.

2. Do it now! Delay wastes time and saps energy.

3. Learn when to say "No," and when to say "Yes." Selective spending of time is necessary.

4. Take time out. Do something that restores the lilt and zest to living. A change is as good as a rest.

New football uniforms will be flashing about the stadium on the team when the season starts this fall. Different from old uniforms, the new ones will be quite plain.

For the two pre-season games lightweight cotton jerseys will be used because of the heat which the team will be combating, besides good teams, when they meet Arizona University, September 21, and Kansas State, September 28.

The new jerseys are white, short-sleeved with royal blue numerals on the sleeves. The uniform will also include silver helmets with corresponding numbers on the sides of them. The new pants will be silver and the socks will be blue and white. The team will be wearing low-cut shoes.

The home team will be the wearers of the dark jerseys on the field beginning this fall and the visiting team will be dressed in the light jersey.

Cougar gridiron men will report to BYU August 30 to draw their uniforms and have their pictures taken. Practice will officially begin September 1 and Coach Kopp will hold practice sessions daily.

Two prospective Cougars, Roger Shields, a Florida boy and Stanley Ward from Oklahoma City, Okla., are expected to be visiting the campus soon.

Don Fullmer, youngest of the three brothers, will make his debut in the pro ranks Thursday night. This will be his first professional appearance although he is well known as a football player and amateur boxer.
